ECPCM–Membership what does it mean?

ECPCM–Membership what does it mean?

ECPCM is an independent association of organisations and institutions promoting protestant church music in Europe. Individual membership is also available.

ECPCM organises annual meetings covering the following topics:

- information and experiences within European church music.
 - country status reports,
- mutual consultations and joint activities between the various member countries with a goal of developing and enhancing ecclesiastical and cultural forms in Europe.
 - presentations of specific musical works
- exchanging mutual visits, exchanging music books/ scores and literature, education and training.

The main concern of ECPCM is to focus on the mission of protestant church-music. ECPCM pays special attention to the mutual strengthening of the forces in church music, also in view of Diaspora situations.

Members regularly receive the ECPCM-informations with reports on the most important results of the meetings.

At the annual meetings of delegates each organisation has the right to one vote; individual members play a consultative role and have no voting rights. Participation of additional persons is encouraged.

Member organisations pay an annual fee of between 100,- to 300,- EURO, depending on their financial means. It is with Christian spirit that organisations, which have the means, contribute a larger sum in order to offset the shortfall caused by those that are not so well off.

Since the anniversary meeting in Strasbourg 1995 „ECPCM 25 years “ - a special solidarity fund enables financial support to delegates from East European countries for their meeting and travel expenses. All ECPCM members are kindly asked to support this fund with generous contributions.
